Nejedly to 'hinterlands'

'No binding contract for valley BART service'

Representatives of East Bay cities in the "hinterland" of Bay Area Rapid Transit service have been advised "there is no binding legal contract which would compel BART to provide bus service to your cities."

Senator John Nejedly dropped that bombshell during the course of a Wednesday evening session at Danville. Representatives from the communities of Livermore, Pleasanton, Antioch, Pittsburg and Dublin have been meeting as "The Lepers of BART" in a concerted effort to guarantee transit service to their cities.

The group voted "unanimous support " to a bill by the Walnut Creek Republican which would "mandate extension of rail lines" to these East Bay points.

The measure however, would not prevent an extension to Oakland International Airport, and may not stop a rail line to San Francisco International Airport.

Nejedly has been waging a four year legislative battle for his measure. It has cleared the Senate, but has been killed in Assembly Committee by a San Francisco contingent

The "Lepers" are considering a request for a public hearing on BART's Oct. 9 decision to curtail service at the end of the fiscal year.

Under the motion introduced by San Francisco BART director Elmer Cooper, service will end unless sufficient state or federal funding can be found.

BART Director Dr Harvey Glasser amended Cooper's motion and instructed the district's general manager, Frank Herringer, immediately to begin discussions with local communities over locally funded feeder bus systems.

The move is seen as an attempt to discontinue BART bus service after June 30 and to force local areas not served by rail to start up their own bus systems.

According to the valley's BART representative, Robert Allen, the valley contributes some $771,000 per year to the district through the half-cent sales tax increment

This money, he argues, could be used by a "joint powers agency" to operate a feeder bus system, rather than going to BART for the subsidizing of rail lhnes to the core areas.

Both Allen and Richmond representative to BART Nello Bianco told the assembled representatives of the various "Leper Colonies" that they don't have the support of a majority of the BART board.

State intervention might be garnered if a bill tying continued fiscal support to guaranteed bus service for distant communities is passed.

The affected communities can bedevil state legislators for support /and give them a "feeling of the communities involved," Supervisor John D. Murphy advised the group.

Foothill High Princesses

Homecoming princesses will be announced today for each of the three classes at Foothill High School in Pleasanton. The Falcon festivities begin at 3 this afternoon with a parade from the Fairgrounds, along Bernal and Main and ending up at Amador Valley High. The Falcons play Menlo tonight at Amador. Candidates for princess are, back from left, Angela Paradiso, Sandy Aydelotte and Lisa Sparks, junior candidates; center from left, Melantha Snider, Danielle Blanchard and Debbie Lee, sophomores; front from left, Sherry Sylva, Loretta Cuesta and Julie Ross, freshmen. Winners will be announced at game. (Times Photo)

Zone 7 doesn't increase rates

Zone 7 Board of Directors unexpectedly failed Wednesday night to pass a resolution which would have increased treated water delivery rates by 27% in 1976.

The Board had been expected to approve the measure, based on a formula set forth in a rate resolution adopted last year. That resolution required the board to meet 60 days before the end of each year to set next year's rates based on cost figures from the prior fiscal year.

The increase was blocked by directors Robert Pearson and Richard Ryon after a spirited debate.

Ryon opposed the formula on which computations are based, saying it would result in a compounding of charges. "I just don't belive our 1979 costs will be 53% greater than costs in 1978," he declared.

Pearson called the increase "excessive" and said he wouldn't vote for it that night.

Director Zodtner urged passage of the 1976 rates recommended by the staff, noting that "we can change other figures next year."

Robert Becker, vice chairman of the board, was in favor of accepting the 27% 1976 increase. "We've got a 60-day time limit, and we can't just sit around here and argue. I say we go with the staff's recommendation."

A motion later made to accept the 1976 increase as proposed was accepted by a vote of 3 to 2. Board chairman David Harris, Becker and Zodtner approving the measure.

The Zone's legal counsel noted, however, that a rate resolution required four ayes rather than a simple majority of the 5 directors present that night. Directors Joseph Concannon and George Lydiksen were absent.

The proposal has been sent back to the Zone's finance and wastewater committees for further study.

The board will reconvene in special session Wednesday, Oct. 29 for a final vote on the resolution.

New priorities listed for city redevelopment

The redevelopment proposal hammered out by a seven member committee of the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce would offer a much different list of priorities than any earlier plan authored by city staff.

The chamber's package would also be somewhat less ambitious, scaling down both the scope and the long-term commitment of any redevelopment program.

Citing "practical expectations," the chamber plan projects only $395,775 in "incremental tax income" for the first five years, permitting bond sales of about $5.6 million. The city staff had project bond sales of over $7 million in that initial phase.

The emphasis in that first phase, as far as the chamber is concerned, would be on downtown public works projects ... completion of Peters Street (parallel to and west of Main); street furniture and landscape peninsuals; development of the Division Street Mall (encompassing old City Hall); realignment of Bernal to First Street; construction on Del Valle Parkway; relocate the Little League field in the Youth Sports Park on Hopyard; development of bike paths along Hopyard.

Not until the fifth year of that first-phase would the West Las Positas overcrossing be completed. This structure would allow traffic to move over I-680 between Foothill and Hopyard. Access to Foothill High School and the Youth Sports Park on Hopyard have been particular concerns of residents on both sides of that freeway.

Total outlay for all projects in that initial five-year plan would be $2.3 million, the chamber says, or less than half of the projected bondable capacity of the district in that period.

Eliminated from the plan, under the chamber's proposal, would be the VCSD treatment plant, Val Vista Park, Muirwood Community Park, the McManus property just north of the Youth Sports Park, the County Fairgrounds, the city sewer plant on Sunol Boulevard, a small parcel West of Foothill Road, the planned county administration center east of Sdnol Boulevard, Pleasanton Elementary School, Harris Acres, Walnut Drive and adjoining residential parcels, and a parcel adjacent to Stanley Boulevard and north of the Arroyo del Valle.

Streets will remain two-way

LIVERMORE — The Times incorrectly reported yesterday that the city council voted to make a series of streets south of First Street one-way with diagonal parking.

The council did vote to put in diagonal parking however the streets will remain two-way.

Diagonal parking will be created along I, J, and K streets between Third and Fourth streets; K Street between Second and Third streets, and Second Street between Livermore Avenue and McLeod Streets.

By doing so, an additional 33 to 38 parking spaces will be created.

Mike Croteau chosen Bicentennial winner

PLEASANTON — Mike Croteau has been chosen as the Amador Valley High School winner in the Bicentennial Seniors scholarship competition.

This competition is part of a nationwide scholarship program for high school seniors currently being conducted by the National Association of Secondary School Principals with funds from the Shell Oil Company.

Runnerup is Deborah Callon.

Croteau's winning composition consists of a "Bicentennial Minute" and a commentary discussing the relevance of this "minute for today and for America's future."

He also scored high on a current events test.

The selection committee was comprised of Don Foreman, Mike Geib, Cyril Bonanno and Ralph Laird, principal.

Croteau will now compete with other high school winners to becole one of the two state representatives to the national competition. Two winners from each state and the District of Columbia will receive a scholarship of $1,000 and an all-expense paid trip to Williamsburg, Va. from Jan. 16-19, 1976 to attend seminars on educational and social issues and to be on hand for the selection of the national winner.

The grand prize winner receives a $10,000 scholarship. The winning his/her Bicentennial Minute will be presented on the CBS television network.

Four valley high schools will stage homecomings today

Four valley high schools will stage Homecoming activities today with football games tonight highlighting the annual events.

Foothill High in Pleasanton voted Thursday for homecoming princesses who will reign over today's activities, topped by the Falcons game with Menlo School and an after-game dance in the girls' gym at Amador Valley High. A parade, including the school's band, will start at 3 p.m from the Fairgrounds and travel via Bernal, Main and Santa Rita to Amador Valley High.

San Ramon High will stage a rally this morning at 11 with candidates for homecoming king and queen present. The Wolves host Amador Valley High at 8 tonight.

Dublin High students will stage a parade this afternoon starting at the Handyman parking lot in Dublin and traveling via Amador Valley Boulevard and Village Parkway to the school. Theme for homecoming is "The Roaring Twenties."

The Dublin-Granada East Bay Athletic League game kicks off at 8 o'clock.

Livermore High classes will exhibit their floats at tonight's game with Monte Vista. Awards will be made to the best floats.

Blowing in the wind'

Cash found at crash; more missing

LIVERMORE — Alameda County Sheriff's Dept. officials said yesterday that more than $800 in cash was recovered at the scene of a light plane crash above Del Valle Reservoir in which two men were killed Oct. 7.

Lt. Don Madsen said the bills, mostly hundreds, were blowing across the hilly terrain where pilot-owner Richard C. Weckerle of Sunnyvale and passenger Vince Svedise of South San Francisco died when their single-engine Cherokee 140 when into a spin and crashed.

The first search party to arrive at the crash site scooped up as much of the money as could be found, which totalled $827, Madsen said.

County Coroner's Dept. officials were at the scene Tuesday searching for more of the loose cash. A spokesman said only a quarter was found during Tuesday's hunt, and the dept. would conduct no further searches.

A private investigator representing Weckarle's insurance company said Svedise, the passenger killed in the crash, was in business with Weckerle's younger brother, Anthony.

Apparently, the two men completed the sale of a thoroughbred race horse in Fresno before taking off for San Jose. Svedise sold the horse for $2,500, the investigator said, although it is not known if that amount was fully received in cash and in the men's possession at the time of the crash.

The plane was diverted through the Altamont Pass due to inclement weather when it apparently went into a spin and crashed, killing both men on impact.

The crash started a small fire which didn't spread due to recent rains in the area. Lt. Masdsen said some money was probably burnt in the fire, and a $100 bill was found burned in half at the scene.

A salvage operation to bring the plane wreckage from the mountainous region was going to be attempted yesterday, the investigator said.

County officials warned the public from travelling to the crash site, since it is private property with several locked gates barring entrance.

It's almost that time

For those of you good enough to ask, Sarah Hel is nice enough to reply: "Daylight Savings Times ends at 2 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 26." So don't change your clocks before then. But when you do, turn the big handback one hour etc. etc. That way you'll be in tune with the state and the nation, and on Standard Time.

From story-telling to research

Valley libraries offer services

Sixty Rincon School kindergarteners are visiting the Livermore Public Library this orning.

Meanwhile, in the Danville library they're gettinq ready for a Halloween mask-making and scary-storytelling afternoon on Oct. 29.

Dublin librarians are planning next Wednesday's preschool story hour (they're held every Wednesday and Thursday morning) and in Pleasanton, a library assistant is loading up with books for the shut-in senior citizens at Pleasanton Convalescent Home and Kottinger Village.

All the Valley libraries offer a spectrum of services to their "customers" — the taxpayers who are contributing toward their operation.

Children's story hours and tours through the stacks seem to be a feature of all four libraries. A second service (especially cultivated in Livermore where more than 1,000 inquiries a month are answered) is the help of a trained reference librarian in looking up answers to questions, no matter how arcane.

Librarians will even answer questions by telephone, although they can quickly sniff out a student who's fudging on his homework and will lead him to the appropriate book instead of doing his work for him.

Livermore has no fund-raising auxiliary group, although that city operated library does have volunteers who take books to shut-ins at their homes.

The other libraries have active friends of the library-type groups who provide invaluable help.

All libraries except Dublin (which will be moving to much larger quarters as soon as a piece of property can be purchased) contain community rooms suitable for moderate-sized groups of people. Here, activities like Danville's monthly "book talks" (the next one will be Nov. 3, 10:30 a.m.) are staged by the staff. In addition, the comfortably furnished facility is available for civic groups to use.

The number and type of employes working at a library determine what kind of attention a patron gets when he walks in with a special need.

The county library systems have a method of assigning staff depending on each library's activity and population of the surrounding area. Here's how it breaks down:

Dublin (Alameda County): Head librarian is Virginia Bennett. Then there's a Young Adult librarian who works halftime in reference; a reference librarian who's expert on government documents, stocks, laws and telephone reference questions; a children's librarian; library assistant who is a college graduate; and student aides.

Pleasanton (Alameda County): Two librarians, two full-time and one half-time library assistants; three clerks and six parttime library aides. In the absence of a permanent head librarian, Bruce Vogel, coordinator of children's services, is the temporary branch head.

Livermore (City): Donald Knolte is head librarian. He is assisted by a children's librarian, an outreach worker, a head reference librarian, a full-time and a half-time reference librarian, six full-time clerks, two half-time clerks and seven high-school students who put in 10 hours a week.

Danville (Contra Costa County): Head librarian Ruth Russell heads a staff composed of adult, young adult and children's librarians; three library assistants, two of them part-time; two full-time library clerks and two students.

BART directors' expenses reach high

First in a series
By Justin Roberts

If BART directors held a contest on expense account spending — San Francisco Director Elmer Cooper would be the champion.

First runner-up in the contest would be Richard O. Clark, president of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's board of directors.

Cooper, vice president of the board, turned in $17,277.59 in expense account claims during the first seven months of this year. Clark's expense accounts for the same period came to $6,343, according to files at BART headquarters in Oakland.

Cooper's expense accounts averaged $2,468.22 per month during the first seven months of the year, while Clark's monthly charges for expenses to BART averaged $906.25 per month.

In Cooper's case, his 12-month rate of spending at BART's expense would see his expense accounts climb to $29,618 per year. If Clark's rate of spending continues, his expense accounts would total $10,875 for the current calendar year.

BART's seven othur directors were less liberal with their district expense accounts. Examination by The Times reveals that Walnut Creek Director James Hill was tightest with BART's purse strings, since his activities as a director in the January-July period resulted in expense accounts totaling only $430.13 — or an average of $61.42 per month.

The expense account reporting of all the directors was examined — and irregularities such as double-billing the district and improper charges are evident in Cooper's and Clark's reports.

These practices apparently include billing BART twice over a two-month period for the same service by submitting invoices with two different company names on them, and billing BART for "secretarial services" although the district maintains a large secretarial pool which is available to directors.

Other questionable practices include submitting substantial bills monthly for lavish lunches and sumptuous dinners, billing BART for office space which BART's president normally occupies in his personal business and paying for a "staff assistant' who the board rejected earlier this year.

In addition, expense accounts of two directors even reflect the taxpayers underwriting long trips camouflaged as "transit meetings" in various parts of the world.

Each BART director receives a stipend of $50 per meeting, payable for up to five meetings or a maximum of $250 monthly. Since there are normally more than five board and committee sessions monthly, each director receives $3,000 in annual pay over his claimable expenses.

BART's vice president however, gets an additional $3,000 yearly along with the title, giving him a total of $6,000 in pay — plus expenses. The board president draws $5,000 extra for holding that office which gives him a total salary of $8,000.

This is over and above the liberal benefits the president can generate for himself, since Clark, as president of the part-time board, approves his own expense accounts

Both Clark and Cooper claimed substantial portions of their expense account spending between January and April when the district was involved in recruiting a new general manager.

Next: The Afro-American Council on Higher Education; Executive Assistance, an answering service and employment agency; Cooper and Company; and how they all occupy the same suite of offices which are listed under several addresses.

Zone 7 asks all agencies to share in water plan

In an effort to "study the issue from all angles," Zone 7 Board of Directors Wednesday night moved to ask local, county and state agencies to respond to the Zone's intention to develop an integrated water quality management plan for the Alameda Creek watershed above Niles Canyon

A letter of invitation will be sent to Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG), Livermore-Amador Valley Water Managment Association (LAVWMA), the cities of Pleasanton and Livermore, Valley Community Services District (VCSD), Bay Area Sewer Service Agency (BASSA), Alameda County Water Districts, Alameda County Board of Supervisors, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, and San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The letter explaining Zone 7's resolution will ask the agencies and other interested persons to attend a work session Nov. 12. Agencies are asked to advise the Zone of their views in writing prior to Nov. 5.

Director Harlan Zodtner explained this would give the agencies "an opportunity to go on record, to give us their idea of what we ought to do."

Assemblyman Floyd Mori will be the guest speaker when the Livermore Valley Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association convenes at Hap's Restaurant Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. following cocktails at 6:30 p.m.

Vocational speaker for the evening will be Wanda Colvin in a presentation on training required for accounting and tax service positions.

Plans have been finalized for the club's weekend trip to SAN Simeon, and preparations are underway for the Christmas Bazaar slated Nov. 14-15.

Pleasanton Juniors

Pleasanton Gardens was the setting for the Pleasanton Junior Women's initiation dinner for six new members.

New members of the club are Suzette Glanville, Dolly Brown, Pat Fechner, Jo Ann Pennisi, Kathy Pilkington and Connie Rait.

Initiation officer was Judy Caporicci, Area A South vice-president, who welcomed the club's new members.

Dusty Wings

Prospective members will be greeted at a Dusty Wings Club membership brunch Saturday, Oct. 25 at the home of Inga Stiles, 17 Chapel Dr., Lafayette.

Membership in the club is open to any former stewardess residing in the East Bay Area. The club makes a yearly donation to the Lynn Home for Mentally Retarded Children in Danville.

Former stewardesses interested in attending the 11 a.m. brunch or in more information may contact Tammy Beeler at 447-9069.

From bugs to boom town

Mike Zampa

Tennis Town has the earmarks of a boom town, a bustling recreational metropolis.

The indoor racquet club hard by two Pleasanton freeways has drawn 125 members already and workmen are still swarming the place. They're predicting a sell-out of 1,000 memberships within a year.

Santa Clara tennis entrepreneur Pete Denevi opened Tennis Town Oct. 4 in an expansive warehouse that was part of the doormant Volkswagen plant.

Only four courts have been installed to date because the building's last lessee, the telephone company, hasn't vacated yet. By the weekend six more courts should be in operation. When Ma Bell clears out her phone booths and coaxial cable the other 10 should open up quickly.

The optimum facility will feature 20 indoor tennis courts (consisting of four different playing surfaces) 10 outdoor courts, squash, handball and racquet ball courts, exercise rooms, shower and locker rooms. They'll even have a baby-sitting center.

It sounds like a bold venture because nothing on this scale has been attempted in Pleasanton before. But Denevi's people have no doubts about locating in the gigantic 144,000 square foot playhouse that stood as a white elephant for two years.

"Why not," says Joe Connolly, general manager of Denevi's Bayside Racquet Club in San Carlos. "You're right by two freeways, and you've got your building up already. It's perfect. Now I'm just praying for heavy rain."

Indeed it may be perfect for Denevi. He has the indoor market cornered in the East Bay. If you live here and want to play with a roof over your head, the only alternatives are San Francisco's racquet club, or Pete's Bayside club.

The membership rolls to date are a demagraphic mix. Folks are coming from as far and Oakland and Moraga to join, as well as central Contra Costa. There is a big Pleasanton contingent in the early signups.

Response so far has been encouraging because no one has pushed Tennis Town. It is still a skeleton complex, and that's hard to sell. Brochures have been printed up but there hasn't been any advertizing.

"In tennis circles, news travels fast," says Pat Schall, who works as the receptionist. "And you wouldn't believe how that sign out front has helped."

That huge electronic message tower that used to feature catchy Volkswagen jingles is now stumping for Tennis Town. It has lured potential customers, and even two Canadian businessmen who stopped in for a couple of sets before the long drive home.

Tennis shoppers can call for a test drive of the indoor courts at no charge. Their comments have been favorable, though some have complained about glare from skylights. Electricians are buttressing the existing light with higher intensity lamps.

The courts will feature a variety of hard surfaces, but the most popular may be the carpeted ones. Six are to be installed. Indoor players claim they can play for hours on the rug without becoming leg weary. The surface is slower but provides a good bounce, for player and ball. Carpet is the favorite flooring at the Bayside club, where there are 750 members.

Right now Tennis Town memberships are selling for $50 administration fees. Monthly rates start at $25 for a single player, and escalate for families. The $50 is almost a give-away introductory offer. It will shoot up soon. At Bayside memberships sell for $1,000, though they can be bought and sold. Eventually a Tennis Town membership will fall into the same category.

Non-members can rent courts, but the fee is $5 per player, per hour. That is not the market Denevi is aiming for.

Tennis Town is drawing from country clubs like Castlewood and Round Hill. The folks there are in a position financially to purchase an indoor membership as insurance against the winter. It is also luring public court players who have to combat overcrowding as well as rain. Of course when the initiation fee jumps, only the most dedicated of that latter group will seek admittance.

At present Tennis Town has none of the oppulence of Bayside, Denevi's flagship. It may never have the creature comforts of the S.F. Racquet Club which leans heavily on graphic art design, and features a mezzanine cocktail lounge.

Tennis Town is at the moment an enormous iron shell better suited for housing derrigibles. The tipoff, however, is that people are joining before the finished product begins to take form. There's no telling when the 20 courts will be completed. It depends on how soon Mother Telephone can get off her area code and out of the building. Reports are she is waiting for a plumber at her new storage facility.

Even after the tennis surfaces are installed, construction will drag on for the trappings, such as handball courts.

Given the mania of tennis players, however, they'll endure the wet paint and ringing hammers.

Denevi has waiting lists for his other tennis operations. They expect the same for Tennis Town someday.

Times may be tough by the economists' standards, but folks in the recreation business are wondering where the recession went.

Perez homers beat Boston

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez shattered a Series' long slump with a pair of home runs and the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Boston Red Sox, 6-2, in Thursday night's pivotal fifth game of the 1975 World Series.

Don Gullett allowed only two hits until the ninth inning and then Rawly Eastwick came out of the Reds' bullpen to get the final out, snuffing out a last-gasp Red Sox rally.

The victory gave the Reds a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series with the teams returning to Boston for Game 6 on Saturday. If a seventh game is needed, it will be played Sunday in Boston.

Perez' booming homers gave Gullett a comfortable margin that he carried into the ninth. He got the first two outs but then was kayoed on singles by Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk and an RBI double by Fred Lynn.

It took Eastwick only three pitches, all of them strikes, to Rico Petrocelli to end the game. After Eastwick slipped the third strike past Petrocelli, the Reds embraced the ace reliever, who had been credited with their first two victories in this Series and now had tacked on a crucial save as well.

Perez provided the crucial offense for the Reds, smashing a solo home run in the fourth to tie the score at 1-1 and booming a three-run homer in the sixth off the facing of the second deck in left-center field.

The Red Sox had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a triple by Denny Doyle and Yaz' sacrifice fly.

For the first three innnings, Boston's Reggie Cleveland protected the Red Sox' one-run lead.

But Cincinnati began to solve Cleveland in the fourth inning, and the first Red to come up with a solution was Perez.

Hitless in the first four games of the Series, Perez was 0-for-15 as he came to the plate. The slump had observers thinking about Gil Hodges' 0-for-21 horse collar for Brooklyn in the 1952 World Series and the 0-for-22 Series that St. Louis' Dal Maxvill struggled through in 1968.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson had dropped Perez a notch in the batting order, from fourth to fifth, and acknowledged that the Cincinnati first baseman's Series troubles had influenced the switch.

After a warm ovation from the capacity Riverfront Stadium crowd that was critically conscious of Perez' problems, the first baseman stepped in against Cleveland.

As he circled the bases, the fans erupted and his Cincinnati teammates, who had been pulling so hard for the slugger they call "Dog," cheered wildly.

The homer tied the game, and an inning later Cincinnati took the lead for keeps with Gullett starting the rally with two out. The young pitcher singled up the middle and then, on an 0-1 pitch, Pete Rose slapped a double, inches fair inside the left field line, scoring Gullett all the way from first.

Glads out-D DVC, 2-1

PLEASANT HILL — "We really got up for this game," remarked John Shaw, Chabot's soccer coach, following his club's narrow 2-1 win over much-improved Diablo Valley last night at Viking Field.

The win moved the Gladiators into the penthouse of the Golden Gate Conference. City College of San Francisco remains in second.

"DVC really plays well against us, home and away," shrugged Shaw, talking to the news media. Shaw's team now possesses an overall 12-2-1 mark. The Hayward school is 4-1 in GGC play.

Dave Anderson and Cesar Trigueros provided all the scoring Chabot needed, the latter's score iced the game.

Anderson's boot came with 14:49 into the first half on an assist from John Glasky. The score was set up via a short corner kick.

"Basically, it was a set-up play," said Shaw. "We've been working on it for a little while now."

To date, that play has worked three times for Chabot.

Chabot's other tally came with 24:52 gone in the second half, when Trigueros scored on an assist form Gil Zuniga, zapping the ball past Viking goalie John O'Connell.

From an artistic standpoint, both clubs rendered a most entertaining game. DVC never really showed that much poise offensively until late in the game, when the contest turned into a wide open affair.

Not until 37 minutes elapsed did DVC ripple the sparkling orange nets. Two former Las Lomas players, Mark Angstrom and Kurt Adkins provided the tally.

Adkins, a freshman who exhibited an extraordinary performance for the Vikings, skipped the ball past goalie Steve Hector from six yards away.

Hector, meanwhile turned in a brilliant performance, safeguarding the Glad goal. The former Amador Valley player saved 17 shots to O'Connell's twelve.

Prior to the DVC encounter, Viking coach Jack Smith who mentioned in type, "Good luck, we know it is possible to beat Chabot. Just remeber 60 per cent of a victory is confidence, 99 per cent of loss in overconfidence."

Smith added, "This is the best-conditioned team we've ever had."

Truly so. The Vikes, who had a 5-14-3 record in 1974, are a much improved team all around. Diablo was awesome on defense, but there offensive execution did need more timing.

Shaw continued, "It's been a long time since we've played. We really weren't up for the Foothill game, but we came back with fresh players tonight. "Worked nicely."

Overall DVC won the statistical match-ups. The Vikes outshot Chabot 19-18 and won the goal-kicking game 13-8. In fouls the Vikes committed 10 to the Glads 23, and in free kicks, Diablo won 16-7.

Dunbar starts panning for gold

The 17-year-old Foothill High School student is part of the six-member United States team.

The Americans are favored to dominate gymnastics competition, with a challenge from the Cubans.

Diane could be the individual favorite, though she has been hampered by a damaged disc in her back. The injury is aggravated during the vaults and in somersaulting.

Diane was the second top qualifier on the American Pan Am Games team.

Her squad has undergone a week of intense altitude training in Reno, and two weeks of workouts in Mexico City in preparation for the competition.

Gymnastics will continue at the Pan Am Games on Monday, and conclude with the finals Wednesday night.

This is Diane's first try at The Games. She represented the U.S. team at the World Games last year in Bulgaria.

AV, SR clash for 1st

Both Amador Valley and San Ramon High Schools won their EBAL tennis matches yesterday afternoon, setting up a showdown dual meet on Tuesday.

Livermore also won, topping Dublin, 4-3.

The Dons beat Granada, 6-1, to remain unbeaten.

Mike Fracisco beat AV's Mike Crow, 7-6, 6-2 while Chris Watchmaker battled Doug Brannan in both sets before losing, 6-4, 7-5.

The win by Fracisco was the first by a Mat against AV in several years and earned him praise from coach Lee Williford.

"If I could vote for a 'Prep-of-the-Week', I'd pick Fracisco," said Williford. "He always concentrates and never gives up. He's a real tonic to have around."

San Ramon triumphed over Monte Vista despite losing first singles and first doubles.

The Mustangs Jill Toney pounded out a 6-2, 6-2 win over Brad Blake in singles while the MV brother act, Rob and Rick Overstreet, just got by Jim Hogeboom and Henze, 7-5, 7-6.

Rick Reed and Lisa Bee displayed the most devastating tennis for the winners. Reed aced Mustang third player Rob Straeter, 6-0, 6-0 while Bee topped Van Schalin, 6-2, 6-1.

Livermore, meanwhile bounced Dublin, which beat California 5-2 in a make-up match on Wednesday, edged Dublin 4-3.

Gael star Doug Canfield won the only singles match for Dublin, beating Steve Williford, 2-6, 7-6, 7-5. Williford's brother Scott won the next closest match topping Mike Lacey, 6-2, 7-5 in a match featuring lenghty rallies.

Dublin won both doubles matches.

Chabot faces DeAnza

The Dons will be in town Saturday night to face Chabot in a key Golden Gate Conference contest at 7:30. DeAnza is 2-0, Chabot, 2-1.

The Gladiators come into the game with only the fifth best offense in GGC statistics, averaging 290.2 yards per game. But they do possess that highly desired balance between the rush and pass that coach Terry Cagaanan and his staff have long sought. Chabot has gained 792 yards on the ground, and 659 through the air.

On the other hand, DeAnza is third in offense, but with a rush-pass split so out of kilter, the Gladiators must have turned pale reading the scouting reports.

DeAnza has picked up 1,001 yards on the ground, second in the GGC only to San Jose with 1,219. The Dons have passed for a negligible 386 yards, next to last in the conference.

That should give the Gladiators a hint on how to play defense. If they need more, well, consider the accomplishments of DeAnza running back Dan McCrone. In four games the sophomore All-GGC honorable mention has gained 402 yards and scored eight touchdowns. He is averaging 6.2 yards per carry. McCrone is second in the league in rushing, and first in scoring.

That sums up DeAnza's offense.

Defensively, the Dons are second in the conference, yielding an average of 225.5 yards per game. Defensive back Pat Dawes has picked off three interceptions already.

Dawes will be a focal point for Chabot quarterback Chuck Stevenson, who has thrown seven interceptions in his last two games.

On a more positive note, Stevenson's leading receiver, Tom Ferguson, has 24 receptions, second in the conference to Diablo Valley's Wally Yuhre with 27.

Stevenson in two games has completed 21-of-56 passes for 254 yards and no touchdowns.

His leading ground gainer is Curtis Bledsoe, with 275 yards and four touchdowns.

DeAnza is tied with College of San Mateo for first place in the GGC with a 2-0 record. The Bulldogs also have a tie on their ledger.

Chabot is tied for third place with San Jose City College, and West Valley.

West Valley and San Jose meet this weekend, while San Mateo faces Foothill.

Sports in brief

SR invite on tap

San Ramon High School hosts its own cross-country invitational at 10 a.m. Saturday. The meet, orginally scheduled for last Saturday, was postponed because of rain.

The meet will draw some of the better teams and runners in the Bay Area. Host San Ramon is among the favorites for the team championship.

Tickets are $2 and proceeds will go towards expenses incurred by Diane in her drive to the Olympics next summer at Montreal.

Tickets will be available at the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, or by phone at 846-7444, or 462-3176.

Larry prexy

Laurence Williamson has been elected president of the Sunny Glen Lawn Bowling Association in San Ramon.

Other officers are; Elko Hulley, vice president, Fred Leport, secretary-treasurer; Phil Flores, games chairman, Norman Davis and Elko Hulley, greenskeepers; and Herb Charnetski, member at large.

Livermore wins, Wendy improves

Livermore High School remained unbeaten in varsity cross-country yesterday afternoon, downing Amador Valley, 22-36.

The Cowboys' Boyd Tarin captured first in the three-mile race by 25 seconds with a time of 15:16.

Bruce Rogers of AV was second in 15:41, just ahead of a trio of 'Pokes who all finished in the following nine seconds.

Greg Novacek won the two-mile frosh-soph affair in 10:35 and Dan Tolutear topped the JV's with a 10:46 mark over the same distance.

Wary Couch awaits Gaels

Pre-season football is for answering questions. They play the rest just to verify those answers.

But at least one man feels there are still unsolved variables as Granada High and Dublin open the EBAL season tonight in Dublin.

Kickoff is at 8.

"Dublin is just about in the same position we are," says Granada coach Don Couch. "They're not to sure how good a football team they have, and we're not sure how good we are. We'll probably find out tonight."

The Matadors are 3-1, the Gaels, 1-3. That is no indicator, however, says Couch. "The teams we've played are not nearly the caliber of the teams Dublin has been playing."

It could also be a turning point for the Gaels, who open defense of their EBAL championship. Granada is one of the title favorites, and a win for Dublin is a must if wants to repeat as champion.

"I figure we're starting a new season," says Dublin's Wayne Re. "If we're going to have to play the best, we might as well play them right now."

Both teams will start young quarterbacks. Granada will start veteran senior John Walden at quarterback, though Couch indicates he'll be rotated with sophomore Steve Robison. That is one of the variables in the Matador equation.

"We're at the point where one is doing some things better than the other," Couch explains. "It's a situation where if one gets hurt, there will be no hesitation about the other going in."

Dublin will open with junior Sean Mays, who started in Dublin's last game, a loss to Bishop O'Dowd. "It was looking in the last game like Sean did things pretty well," Re said yesterday. "His passing has been more consistent."

The key clash tonight could come in the trenches. Granada has a strong, veteran offensive line. Dublin is big and well schooled across the defensive front.

Guards Bob Otey, 5-10, 175 and Ed Ebert, 6-1, 175, and tackle Ron Freeman, 6-0, 195, all started at Granada last year.

Another newcomer, Rich Bosch, 6-0, 180, opens at tight end.

Granada features a strong attack with Vance Rushing and Mike Jaeger, who has picked up more than 300 yards this season. Re, however, is concerned with the Matador defense, especially linebacker Tim Duke.

"Duke does a heck of a job moving around back there," Re says. "He's got good football sense and in the games I've scouted, I think he's got three interceptions. It's a great advantage in a 5-2 defense to have good linebackers like that.

"We've had a heck of a lot of offense," the Dublin coach says, "but we've just had mental breakdowns."

Fumbles and interceptions have cost the Gaels in all three losses.

"Most of the time we beat ourselves," Re says "If we had a few breaks, and if we hadn't fumbled so much, we could have been 3-1 right now."

"I think they're potentially a pretty damn good team," Couch says of Dublin. "They have fumbled quite a few times, but they've got two quarterbacks we think throw pretty well."

"We'd like to have more in the offense," Couch says. "But we haven't added things yet because we're not ready. That's the one area where we're behind what we wanted to be."

Sophomore linebacker Kevin Gosney will play a key role in Granada's defense tonight. Gonsey, getting just his second start, will lineup in the path of Dublin's leading rusher, fullback Jim Boulware.

Another newcomer, Rick Malia, is expected to open at free safety for Granada.

Livermore, searching its second straight victory, will confront Monte Vista with an outstanding defense headed by linemen Pete Howard and Wade Andrade.

The Cowboys will have to stop the Mustangs' Bill Fowler, who rushed for 93 yards last week in a win over California.

Foothill will take its improving defense into action against Menlo. The Falcons are also looking for their second win. Falcon tackle Tony Trujillo recorded 25 tackles last weekend in a 6-0 win over Stevenson.

Thinning Wolves battle Dons

San Ramon High is down to 24 varsity football players, but the Wolves aren't lacking confidence for their EBAL opener with Amador Valley tonight in Danville.

"We started out slowly in the pre-season because we had a lot of young players who did not have a lot of experience," coach Fred Houston said. "However, they've gotten better and aren't making the same mistakes they did at the start of the season."

Following two losses at the start of the year, San Ramon performed an abrupt about - face with 40-0 and 38-24 routs of Kennedy and San Jose high schools.

The offense has been the explosive force in the turn around. The Wolves had scored just nine points in their first two games, before unloading in the latter pair.

Houston credits the improvement to experience. "It takes a lot longer to develop an offense than a defense," he said. "A lot of the teams in our league took their time developing the offense because we have four non-league games to get ready. Most leagues have one or two practice games. As a result, our league's practice record has not been as good. But now, it's a different story."

Houston will start senior Steve Ellis at quarterback tonight against Amador. Steve will also play in the defensive secondary.

"Steve earned both jobs," Houston said. "We don't have many players starting both ways, but Steve wants to do the job."

John Fink, Mike Bowles and Paul Fisch will start in the backfield behind Ellis. Bowles, a rugged 210 - pounder, is the leading ball carrier for the Wolves.

"We use whatever play or runner fits the situation," Houston warns, however.

San Ramon will be weary of Amador, which has its offense in tact for the first time this season.

"They have Mike Goodison and Ken Carney healthy at running back for the first time in awhile," Houston pointed out. "They add a great deal to the Amador attack."

The Amador ball carriers will be tracked down by San Ramon linebackers Mark Voeplie, Charley Brice, Tim Rosgen and Randy Huddleston. "They have been particularly outstanding for us," Houston said. "They haven't missed a minute of playing time on defense."

Goodison, an All-EBAL selection a year ago at running back, missed the entire exhibition season while recuperating from mononucleosis.

Carney has been the Dons' leading back, rushing for more than 100 yards in a victory over Central Valley of Redding two weeks ago.

Gravel's promises could fill that hole

In the 20 years or more that this writer has been observing and working with the gravel interests in this valley, we have recorded a series of grandiose plans and promises ranging from lakeside homes along the banks of Rhodes-Jamieson to golf courses sprinkled atop the garbage base in Kaiser Sand and Gravel's considerable holdings.

But any honest review of those promises must now profess that they are not worth just one of the 20 million truckloads of precious ore that has been extracted from this valley's earth. And the way things are going, there will be another 20 million trucks, laden with gravel and barreling down our streets and roads, before that industry or its political friends return anything more to this scene than "The World's Biggest, Most Useless Hole in the Ground."

That is a sad commentary on an industry that has otherwise been a substantial member of the local economy for some 40 years, and that has been a vital ingredient of the Bay Area's advance throughout this century. It ought not to end on such a tragic note.

But if we look past the great "Kaiser Community Barbecue" of 20 years ago, and that company's repeated pleadings and promises to the local forces; if we place in proper context the flamboyant showing some ten years later when George Jamieson invited the Historical Society and friends to "share his excitement" over a plan for those pits; we begin to see that in another 20 years of promises we will wind up, at best, with little more than a lot of garbage.

For the one single "reclamation plan" that the industry has attempted to bring to realization in all those years is nothing more or less than "a garbage dump for all the East Bay's cities " And perhaps even for all the Bay Area, if our weak-kneed county government permits.

For all their promises and plans, these billion-dollar extractors have not in fact even built their own road to handle the 2000-per-day truck trips to reach fully-half their market. And there will soon be no possibility of such a road, to serve the trucks now, or provide any future public access to all that promised land.

There will be nothing but a hole, extending north and south from Stanley Boulevard like some God-forsaken planet, reaching 120 feet into the bowels of the earth, unreachable by civilized man ... at least those unable to swim.

The gravel industries have not kept faith with the land that has been so profitable for them, for so many years. The County of Alameda has been strangly silent in any firm demand on that industry and its influential stockholders. Even the state highway department has a strange, inexplicable role in this charade.

Somebody ought to care enough to ask, "WHY?"

FOCUS/Fair Association

A 'taxing' situation

Like John Q. Citizen, fairs are apparently feeling the tax squeeze now more than ever before.

That is the indication given via comments by Lee Hall, Fairgrounds Secretary-Manager, during the course of Tuesday night's Alameda County Fair Association Board of Directors meeting.

Hall cited two examples and also commented at length, with a plethora of figures at hand, on relations with "Big Brother County."

Seems "Big Brother" is looking for new sources, also, and has cast what some directors grumbled are furtive glances at an exemplary (Alameda County Fairgrounds) operation.

Hall's assortment of figures generally underscored a Fair Association case of long-standing.To wit, the Fair Association does not feed at the public trough ala municipal bodies and public schools.

Two fairs that do, according to Hall, are the Santa Clara and San Mateo County associations.

Hall told directors Tuesday of two instances where racing operations ..and the racing operation in Pleasanton is a proven big business...are being hit on taxes.

One mentioned was at Del Mar, a languid seaside community within easy reach of San Diego and the metro L.A. area, where the municipality is trying to tax gate admissions, grandstand and Parking.

The City of Albany is charging 42 cents a head on each Golden Gate Fields admission, again according to Hall.

While this writer is not about to doubt the propriety of such taxes, suffice to say that the local Fair Board is becoming more and more concerned about such prospects.

The subject of a city's overtures in the realm of taxes is enough to draw hostile words from Fair representatives.

The subject has been broached many times in the past and has no doubt been the cause of the seeming adversary relationship between the City of Pleasanton and the Alameda County Fair Assoeiation.

The difference locally is that men-of-their-word are involved, both Hall and City Manager Bill Edgar being straightforward persons.

Those qualities, however, will not necessarily lessen any future considerations ala Del Mar and Albany.

If the civic treasury "pinches" enough, all avenues of relief will be looked at. A second or third time if deemed necessary.

We do not pretend to have any solutions in mind for this quandary, though the consideration of greater subsidation should not be put out of mind.

A county fair, and more specifically the grounds on which it is held, is a prime commodity in this day and age....if for no other reason than it can be used every day of the year for a 1,001 sundry events.

For proof of this, take a trip down to the local Fairgrounds and ask to see the "Schedule of Events" for most any month. A tremendously wide cross-section of the people living in this and neighboring counties use the buildings or grounds every day of the year.

Maybe its time the County Fair Association sat down with "Big Brother County" and legislative representatives and had a good old-fashioned heart-to-heart talk on finances

But, before they do, they might invite city representatives too.

Letters to the Times

Favoring redevelopment

Editor, The Times:
There has been a great deal in the press recently, much of it negative, about the proposed Pleasanton Redevelopment Plan. I am writing to express a positive position in this regard as follows:

1. The Pleasanton Central Business District will be seriously affected by a Regional Shopping Center. It has already been greatly affected by the present neighborhood shopping centers resulting in a decline in the number of retail businesses with virtually all of those that remain struggling for their survival.

2. A number of major capital improvements are badly needed to physicially unify our city and to improve traffic circulation within the city.

3. There is nothing wrong or improper about accomplishing both downtown revitalization and capital improvements in the same operation.

4. Tax increment financing, which is the heart of the proposed redevelopment plan, is a unique and opportune method of accomplishing both goals without costing any appreciable additional amount to city taxpayers.

5. There are no serious disadvantages or problems with the revised Redevelopment Plan. Many of those who are opposed have approached the plan from a negative position with closed minds and have blown up their objections out of proper proportion.

6. For many years downtown businessmen and property owners have been looking to the city government for some assistance in maintaining an attractive and healthy business environment.

7. The revised Redevelopment Plan as proposed by the Chamber of Commerce is a sound and realistic proposal that is good for all of Pleasanton and deserves the wholehearted support of all our citizens.

EPA praised

Copy of a letter to:
Sheila Prindiville
Director Water Division
Environmental Protection Agency

This public letter is in response to your recent communication from Mr. Bill Edgar, City Manager of Pleasanton. There are thousands of valley citizens who applaud the untiring efforts of EPA to protect the enviornment in our valley. Mr. Edgar does not speak for us and we salute you.

The Pleasanton City Council doesn't have the courage to ask their constituents to vote approval of a tax increase or a bond issue to build the sewage plant and provide the growth they feel is so essental. They want Federal and State subsidies (our tax dollars) to support their benign proposal and at the expense of our environment.

Pleasanton is a classic case of Cities which have knowingly permitted sewage treatment facilites to be overextended so as to better justify their demands for Federal subsidies. They call it planning. Their Sunol Plant has a long record of smell and inadequacy. They continued to click off building permits at citizen's expense. They would still be doing it today if the Regional Water Board hadn't forced them to stop and fix it.

These city officals don't care about smell and smog. They accept developer plans for new subdivisions, default on their obligation to provide sewage treatment, then hide behind developer law suits to demonstrate and justify demands for federal subsidies.

The issue is clear, Pleasanton's plans for excessive growth will further damage our enviornment already a critical air basin. They should not receive federal funds. If they really feel that Pleasanton Citizens support their growth plans, they should put the matter on the ballot. If they do, they will lose.

We need the EPA to stand firm on enviornmental principles. We will support your efforts. You are our only hope. Thank you.

Livermore Faire aided

Editor, The Times:
The LBO Ways and Means Committee expresses sincere thanks to your newspaper for the publicity given to our latest Bicentennial effort, the Columbus Day Faire, held at the Eagles' Hall on Oct. 13.

We also thank all those groups who gave so generously of their time and talent to display and demonstrate the various hobbies, arts, and crafts which are available in the Livermore Valley.

A special vote of thanks is due those who presented entertainment: Mr. Marcellino Arriaga for his program of Spanish songs and guitar; Mr. Dairl Phillips for his Black Hills Ramblers program; the Choralaires for their singing program; and Susan Maxfield for her violin contributions.

Mr. Harold Gabriel, official Wagonmaster for the California Prairie Schooner, and Mrs. Gabriel were on hand to greet the Faire participants and have them sign the Rededication Scroll which will be taken on the covered wagon to Valley Forge. We are most appreciative for their cooperation in making the scroll available.

None of the above festivities would have been possible without the generous cooperation and participation of the Fraternal Order of Eagles' No. 609. The Eagles provided the facilities, as a Bicentennial gift, for the Faire, and personnel from the Eagles Lodge gave the LBO Committee a friendly helping hand.

The true Bicentennial spirit of cooperation, participation and interest made the Columbus Day Faire an excellent celebration.

Mayor Futch defended

Editor, The Times:
The Tri-Valley Herald's article "Archer Futch chastised at mayors meet" on October ninth headlined unnecessary criticism which was made of Livermore's mayor. He was performing his duty as mayor in following the direction of the City Council which requested the mayor's conference to consider uniform beverage container ordinances in the cities of Alameda County, as well as urging the state to do the same.

Chairman Jack Maltester of San Leandro was obviously uncomfortable by the challenge in the face of the arguments which pointed out that such legislation would encourage the use of returnable bottles — which would save consumers 30%, reduce garbage collection, energy, and litter cleanup costs as well as reducing the nation's dependence on imported tin and aluminum ores.

His criticisms of the County Solid Waste Draft Plan should be sent to the Advisory Committee, not misdirected at Mayor Futch, who had nothing to do with that draft plan.

Mayor Futch is to be commended for his ability to focus on long-range issues, an ability lacking in too many of our politicians; if more politicians had such foresight, many crises on local, state and national levels could be avoided.

Let us hope that city councilmen throughout the county will show responsibility by seriously considering the merits of such legislation along with the many other factors involved in the preparation of a long-range county solid waste plan.

round the town

I think I read it in Reader's Digest. "There is much more to life in the years after 40, than there ever was in the years before 40."

While I am just a shade on the high side of that median, I am already inclined to support that reasoning. Fact is, them that's over 60 have really got it made, in my opinion

I came to this conclusion whilst having dinner the other evening at Hap's Restaurant. The occasion was "a salute to Dr. George Collins by his patients and his friends." There were some of each, and some of both, and maybe even a few that were neither. But they packed the place, nonetheless.

It was the kind of spontaneous affair to which a lot of folks are just naturally attracted. And every blessed one of them appeared to be having a ball.

Dr. Collins reckoned as how there were, in some instances, as many as four generations in one family, all his patients, and all present at that gathering. Two of those generations came into this world, courtesy the good doctor.

But the majority were on the high side of 50, and more than few will never see 75 again. They could care less. They are having too good a time being 80.

And that's when it struck me! Life over 40 is really beautiful. And so are the faces. Beautiful people, exuding the happiness of three-score years and more. Triumphant over the past. Excited about the future. Delighted with each new day, no matter what.

This spirit also seems to spread through the system, toning up the muscles, lending new life to the bones. Don't take my word for it. Just check with George Blanda. Or the local golf course. Check the scores of the "senior golfers" and you'll find they are often as good, or better, than young fellas youngsters 20 years their junior.

I will not reveal here the ages of old duffers like Joseph Schenone, James Trimingham, Carl Frudden and Leo Callaghan, but believe you me, those gentlemen swing a mean golf stick. Never challenge them to a dollar Naussa, even up. They'll clean you every time.

"I take Geritol every day because I love my family," the TV commercial tells us. Personally, I don't think it has a blessed thing with staying young. But it's the thought that counts.

Some folks (mostly Republicans, I am informed) are worried about Justice William O. Douglas' advancing age. The man has had a few recent bouts with the doctors. Has to ride a wheel chair to the Supreme Court sessions. But it was just a year or two ago, it seems, that Justice Douglas took himself a new wife. A young swinger, I am told. Likes to climb mountains and ride horses, just like her hubby.

Don't worry about Bill Douglas getting old, says I. There are good men in their forties who will never know the challenge taken on by our man Bill. Young wife and all.

Most of them are quick to credit "a good marriage" to their longevity. (The testimony on them that drinks and smokes, and them that don't, seems to be split fifty-fifty, so we'll discount all that nonsense.)

I am thoroughly convinced that a long and happy marriage is essential in preserving one's sense of humor. Look at the greatest humorists of our time .. Fred Allen, Jack Benny, George Burns. Gerald Ford ... all of them have relied heavily on their spouses for the source of their happy outlook on life. A few of 'em made that partner a vital part of the humor they then share with the rest of us.

Take Richard Burton, for example. Ever since he and Liz broke up, he's been wearing a terrible scowl, problems with the bottle and all that. Now that he and Ms. Taylor are happily married, again, Richard is pictured wearing a smile a mile wide. Personally, I think they are ideally suited, to each other Wouldn't have either one of them linked with anyone else on this earth.

Judge John Purchio is a jurist who likes to smile a lot. Even with the burden of his Alameda County Juvenile Court, which he has administered for lo' these many years. Some time back the veteran jurist took on a young new wife. Now they announce that union is to be blessed with a new member.

All of which proves something, I am not sure what.

"I am a man of good humor because I have a successful marriage," I declare, giving her a small squeeze over the kitchen sink.

"I've no time for fooling around right now," she replies, rinsing off the frying pan. "You could be a big help by taking out that garbage ... and have you fed the dog yet?"

Even with the perfect partnership, a body has to expect a few ripples on the great sea of life.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

The female crackpots who have put together National Women's Strike Day have, with their lavender literature, managed to infuriate me lately, not so much with their objectives as with their prose. An item with which I will deal in greater detail at a later date.

I could not help but be repelled and outraged by their lavender flyer which accuses me and all of my sex of ignoring, oppressing, raping, brutalizing, imprisoning, confining and restricting members of the other gender — and like it or not there is another gender on this tired old globe.

I have never deliberately ignored a woman worth looking at in my life.

Seriously those accusations are gross and, as far as most men are concerned, stupid and not really worthy of notice.

If the lassies in these United States want to follow in the wake of Hippolyta and establish a nation of Amazons, so be it.

I am sure there will always be a Herecles around to take care of the important little details and put things back in their proper order.

Still, the blanket charge of these something less than thoughtful lassies angers me.

Which is why I was doubly outraged earlier this morning when I heard about behavior by several members of my own sex.

Twice in my life I have been the intended victim of young ruffians who intended to relieve me of my valuables and perhaps some degree of my health through the process known as a strongarm robbery.

On each occasion they have discovered they were not properly selective in their choice of victims and retired in disorder with bruises where their birthmarks should have been.

Of course I am lucky in that regard. Frequently I curse because beds are too short and some doorways too low for the man in this corner.

But my size does make me poor game for strong arm ruffians and I seldom get the short end of the stick physically.

The girl I have in mind is not that lucky. (Note to proofreader That's girl, my dear, G I R L) She is an attractive young woman, petite, intelligent and self sufficient. Believe me, she is a lassie who can make it on her own. There is no need for women's lib where she is concerned.

Some time ago she stopped late at night in front of a convenience market. While riding with her girl friend (the words are hers, not mine, proof reader) their automobile had become overheated and when they stopped in the only bright light available, they discovered a radiator hose was broken.

About then a man who lived across the street offered aid, promising to go to his apartment and get a hose which would fit if they would go inside the store and get some water.

One of the lassies went in for water, the man crossed the street in search of a hose and the girl I know stayed by the car.

Moments later she was abducted and beaten cruelly and senselessly.

I can't go into all the details, partly because I have no story other than the young lady's who remembers little from the time she was kidnapped until her rescue, and partly because of insufficient space.

She was hurried away in a bright yellow automobile, taken to a dark alley and beaten brutally.

The beating continued until the luck which had turned away from her so abruptly in front of the store changed and she was rescued by a passerby.

He was not a particularly heroic fellow, just a man who stopped by to help a lady in distress as men have since the dawn of time, or at least until some bright lassies began calling them male chauvinistic pigs.

Taken home she was unable to describe her kidnappers or to any satisfactory degree the automobile which they drove.

She was so badly injured she was off work for about three weeks and still carries scars on her face and arms.

Strangely there was at no time any attempt at rape. Matter of fact, though she was covered with blood from head to waist, there was not even a run in her nylons.

Listening to her story, and visualizing what had happened I wanted to take after the animals who had beaten her and administer a little punishment in her behalf.

The lass may be strong and healthy, but I doubt she is much more than five feet tall or weighs more than 110 pounds soaking wet.

I thought about the line in the lavender phamplet which mentioned brutalizing and tried to take some small comfort in the fact that she had been rescued by a man and it had been a man who had offered to help fix her broken hose.

All of that did not help much.

I was, and properly so, ashamed of my sex and of what ever wild streak there is in humanity which brings out that kind of behavior.

The young men who had beaten her had no right to claim association with the human race. They were feral animals. Unfortunately they were male.

But when the story was concluded I felt better.

The girls I knew had been the third person kidnapped from in front of that convenience market and the third one beaten. One of the other victims was a lady. The other a man.

I don't know why that made me feel better. Except, of course, it proves what I have always known, that a louse is a louse, no matter what the sex.

Any fool should know there is no use in choosing sides and fighting over an issue like that.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Even if Holmes had elected to pass his 12-high-card points he would have wound up in three notrump.

As anyone can see a spade lead and heart return would beat him two tricks. But no one can really find fault with Scurry's choice of a heart. After a heart lead it would have been a simple matter for the great detective to make four odd by means of successful diamond finesses, but he managed to wind up one in the soup.

It seems that Scurry led his deuce of hearts instead of the conventional fourth best. Holmes' queen covered East's 10 and he led a club to dummy's king. East took her ace and led back the five of hearts.

Holmes took his ace and went into deep thought. That five could have been the lowest from an original holding of jack-10-6-5. In that case the deuce of hearts would have been from King-4-3-2. Holmes decided that was the case so he led a spade to knock out that ace and insure his contract against the expected 4-4 heart break.

Scurry's little bit of deception had paid big dividends.

Ask the Jacobys

A Toronto reader wants to know if:
♠AKQJ9754 ♥A32 ♦6♣7
is a proper ACOL two-spade opening bid.

The answer is a very strong yes. In the ACOL system, opening bids of two in any suit except clubs are forcing for just one round and usually show a hand with tremendous playing strength, but not enough high cards for the standard American two bid.

This hand has nine sure

Community contribution

A dedicated member of the Pleasanton Sorptimist Club, Melda Telford, took it upon herself to give the Sorptimist Club's bench in front of the Chamber office a coat of paint. Here she is applying the first coat of paint. According to Melda, the seating facility will need two "good" coats. After the paint job, she will see that the club's sign is displayed on the back of the bench, which is for public use.

Boutique sale

A Christmas boutique and dinner will be sponsored Friday, Oct. 24 by the Livermore-Pleasanton Emblem Club No. 413 at the Elks Lodge in Livermore.

Club members have been working through the summer making items for the sale. Of special interest is an afghan crocheted by Mary Lees.

The event is open to members and guests from 4 p.m. with proceeds to benefit local charities.

Buddy Rich ... Old Blue Eyes former roommate

With 16 sidemen

Buddy descends on Dublin

"This is the correct billing. No changes should be made:" the notice says.

"BUDDY RICH"

Now that man's got style.

And one helluva press agent.

You spend a few minutes reading the single-spaced, five-page press release and you expect THE MAN to descend on stage in a cloud of light with angels singing praises — in B-flat minor to a tricky 8/14 beat.

"Mr. Humility," the man who's been playing drums since he was 18 months old, will do his thing in Dublin on Thursday, Oct. 30, at Dublin High School. $4.50 admits adults...$3.50 students.

He'll bring his 16 sidemen, too. All fine, young (the press release says their 24 year average is half Buddy's age) dyn-o-mit musicians.

For the uninitiated (Could there be anyone who has never heard of or heard Buddy Rich?), Sir Rich is to drumming what Maynard Ferguson is to the trumpet, Oscar Peterson to piano and Ray Brown to bass. And that's some fine company.

"The music is fresh, vibrant and exciting," the release continues.

And water is wet.

Buddy ("May I call you 'Buddy,' Sir Rich?" asks the drummer turned journalist) was a single act at age seven and a retired vaudevillian at 14.

His hiatus, however, was short lived.

After one set during a jam session with the Joe Marsala band, "Buddy Rich, Jazz Drummer, was born. Those who had already started for the exits returned to their seats and were mesmerized by Buddy's speed, dexterity and virtuosity."

Buddy took the gig.

In subsequent years he played with the Buddy Berigan and Artie Shaw Bands and with the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra.

"He left Tommy Dorsey to join the U. S. Marines where he rose in the ranks all the way to PFC," according to his press release.

He took up again with Tommy Dorsey and was dubbed "The World's Greatest Drummer." He also was the highest paid sideman.

Not bad for a former PFC.

They even let him room with Frank Sinatra, fastest blue-eyed blink on the big band circuit.

Buddy formed his own band after that and for his sidemen used Zoot Sims, Al Cohn, Tony Scott, Johnny Mandel and Aaron Sachs

He played with small groups after the demise of the Big Bands, and joined Harry James in the early 60's — again as the highest paid sideman in the biz.

In 1966 he exploded with his own sound. What the release calls the "NOW" sound of Buddy Rich heading for tomorrow.

No arrangement is more than six months old. "The vitality goes out of them after that period of time and for Buddy everything he plays has to have sparks."

He sings, he dances, he plays the drums —and he handles hecklers with his "articulate wrath." His Karate belt doesn't hurt his chances, either.

Until end of semester

A special bus for Joe Mitchell school

LIVERMORE — Beginning today, Joe Michell School children will be getting a special bus to take them to slip-scheduled reading lessons.

School board members approved the expenditure of about $600 to put on an extra bus — but only until the end of the semester. By then, trustees hope, Michell teachers will have another way figured out to teach their students reading in small groups.

The problem, as explained by three of the children's mothers who have come before the school board twice, is that primary teachers want their beginning readers to arrive for an early reading session while more advanced readers arrive later in the morning and stay later in the afternoon for their special reading time.

That allows teachers to attend to 15 children at a time for the vital reading lesson, instead of keeping tabs on 30 all at once. But it also means children who take the bus to Michell have to arrive early and occupy themselves quietly if they don't have an early reading lesson, because there's no late-morning bus.

Superintendent of Schools Leo Croce advised against putting on the extra bus because of the district's financial condition. He insisted the $500 or $600 could not be squeezed out of any other fund — "We do not keep a padded budget." So it will come out of the district's reserves of an estimated $400,000-plus.

The suggestion to give Michell children extra bus service, but only until the end of the semester, was made by trustee Manuel Prado after all school board members displayed more sympathy toward the situation than the administration did.

One mother revealed that extra buses for slip-scheduled reading have repeatedly been denied to schools because of money. "This is not the first year that this has occurred," said Mrs. Gail Schridder. "I don't know why it always has to be the kids who are affected directly where the budget has to be cut."

Protesting against the district's suggestion that Michell teachers should stop scheduling inconvenient reading hours, she declared: "If a teacher can get the best reading program by breaking the class down into two groups, I say, Hooray for her.!"

Transit grant applications to be considered October 22

Lesher News Bureau

Grant applications for $64 million designed to improve rapid transit, local bus service and the Antioch Bridge will be considered Oct. 22 by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

The grant applications had been recommended for approval by the MTC's grant review and allocations committee.

A proposed grant application totaling $16 million for capital improvements fror BART will be considered. The monies would be used to buy equipment and construct a third track through the downtown Oakland section of BART

The commission will examine a proposed project to provide AC Transit District bus service under contract to the City of Pleasant Hill. The $305,607 cost would be partially funded from Transportation Development Act funds reserved by MTC for county areas not served by BART.

An application for construction of a new bridge by California Department of Transportation over the San Joaquin River at Antioch will be reviewed by the commission.

Cost is estimated at $45 million.
